JUSTICE & PUBLIC POLICY MAJOR (M)

A Bachelor of Science in Justice and Public Policy (JPP) from CUW will help you understand how courses like criminology, criminal psychology, corrections, law enforcement, and probation/parole will prepare you to understand sociological, psychological, and free-will theories, while learning how to apply theory to practice within the American civil and criminal court systems, correctional system, and justice system. Legalrelated courses like criminal justice liability law, along with procedural, and substantive criminal law, apply to effecting arrest search and seizure, evidence collection, and courtroom procedures. You'll learn best practices pertaining to field and custodial interviews, criminal investigations, and juvenile procedures.

What does all that add up to? It creates a foundation for a career in a wide variety of justice and public service-related fields by giving you quality instruction. One hundred percent of all faculty have extensive experience in their respective field. This lends itself to practical and experiential guidance in blending your personal and professional ethical values within a system of justice, public policy, and service.

Program Learning Outcomes

- Students will professionally and effectively communicate through writing and oral presentations using appropriate criminal justice terminology.
- Students will demonstrate knowledge of theories of the causes of criminal activity and public policies that aid in crime prevention.
- Students will accurately describe the role and function of law enforcement, corrections, juvenile procedures, and the courts in society.
- Students will evaluate the effectiveness of criminal justice and security professional in crime prevention and in criminal justice prosecutions.
- Students will be able to gather, analyze and evaluate relevant information to create ethical legal decisions based upon Christian principles.
- Students will demonstrate the practical application of criminal justice research theory and numeracy needed to propose criminal justice research that adds to current research knowledge, restructures or changes current research knowledge, or adds new knowledge to the criminal justice research process.
